The program for the Jerusalem Prize, June 1999, including DeLillo's acceptance address, "A History of the Writer Alone in a Room", appears on pages 13-18. Also included are addresses by Scribner editor-in-chief Nan Graham, the Jury's Citation, and by Jerusalem mayor Ehud Olmert. The text was reprinted in a German translation in Die Zeit in 2001 and by DeLillo's French publisher Actes Sud in their 2000-2001 catalogue under the title "L'Ecrivain seul dans sa chambre." The essay addresses many of DeLillo's preoccupations and concerns as a writer and a novelist.

OCLC lists only two copies (Yale and National Library of Israel), and there are copies in the writer's archive at the Harry Ransom Center, University of Texas, Austin. A rare 'A' DeLillo item in Fine condition.
